Avalon Collective, Hilton Singapore Orchard - Presidential Suite

Located in the heart of the bustling shopping street, Hilton Singapore Orchard is designed for the urban travelers in mind. Paying homage to Orchard Road's agricultural heritage, "The Orchard Trail" was adopted as the overarching concept. Referencing cardamom, clove, pepper, and nutmeg seeds, the Presidential Suite inherited a deep natural palette initiating a grounded character. The studio re-looked into the existing plan and shaped the suite's design language, establishing a contrasting identity to its previous modern classical look.

Avalon Collective shapes spaces. The places we create are destination experiences. We are a consultancy that speaks in spatial, interior and architecture design. We use our signature sense of style to bring independent boutique hotels, luxury hotels, residences and retail spaces to life. Our Creative Director Cedric Jaccard (pictured above) began his design career in Switzerland and expanded his experience with a few years in Paris. Cedric is now based in Singapore where he focuses on varied hospitality experiences with a strong lifestyle-inspired design.

Special recognition Award - Jury's Choice - Winner: M. Moser Associates for Dyson Singapore, St James Power Station

There was one project that all the judges wanted to give special recognition to and this was for the Dyson Singapore, St James Power Station receiving all round high scores from each judge on the Jury Panel. So for the first time, IDCS has created a new category the "Special Recognition" - Jury's Choice award to M. Moser Associates for "Dyson's new HQ is at St James Power Station, the first municipal power station in Singapore and one of the first in South East Asia, with many engineering firsts. M. Moser helped Dyson to reinvent the building for people, reflecting Dyson's culture of innovation".

The Jury Panel

The winning entries were selected by an esteemed jury panel comprising of accomplished and respected interior design professionals, including:

IDCS President Mr Cameron Woo and Founder of Cameron Woo Design, Mr Ed Ng, Principal & Co-Founder of ab concept, Ms Amy Van, Contributing Editor D+A, Mr Shigeru Kubota, Chairman of Japan Environmental Design Association and Ms Su Seam Teo, Partner LTW Designworks. Both the IDEA | ID Professional and SPADE | Student entries were judged by the Jury Panel according to a scoring band, but scored individually in terms of merit. Refer to Annex B for more details on the Judging and Jury Panel.

Best Student Award: Co-Winners: Anjali Saini, (LASALLE College of the Arts) and Zhou Anqi (Temasek Polytechnic)

Zhou Anqi (Temasek Polytechnic), Project: Our Own

| Anjali Saini (LASALLE College of the Arts), Project: Refresh

This year, IDCS has pleasure in announcing two winners for the Best Student Award Category to Zhou Anqi from Temasek Polytechnic and Anjali Saini who both scored the same and highest scores from the Jury Panel for their respective projects; Our Own and Refresh. "The breadth of student projects and their underlying focus on the environment and sustainability was evident throughout the nine (9) student categories. Year upon year, the quality and complexity of the student projects continues to grow, which is encouraging to see as it bodes well for our industry.

“The co-winners, Zhou Anqi and Anjali Saini’s work displayed an admirable understanding of the brief and the final rendered projects demonstrated a level of detail and maturity that set them apart, thus leading them both to receive the highest overall average score from the Jury Panel,” commented Mr Cameron Woo (DEA 2022 Judge). “The SPADE award winners today are our young emerging designers that will become our Industry leaders of tomorrow and IDCS wishes them all the best for their bright and exciting future careers in Interior Design”, says Cameron Woo.

Right Angle Studio took out the silver award for Emerging ID Firm of the Year with their extensive range of projects across residential, retail and workplace design categories. Right Angle Studio is a strong advocate of Minimalism and Modernism in the interior architecture practice, seeking to represent Singapore on a global platform with its diverse range of projects.

Best F&B Design | ≥ 5001 sqf - Gold Winner: Restaurant Born by greymatters (Image below)

The Gold Winner for the Best F&B Design ≥ 5000 sqf goes to greymatters for their project; Restaurant Born, located in Singapore. The design brief by Owners and Chef Zor Tan was to create and design ‘the best restaurant in town’. The space has to showcase the chef’s roots and memories from around the world. Greymatters embraced the architecture and the space presented to them. What was once the station’s ticket hall is now the main dining room with its expansive double volume space surrounded by beautiful arches. The Peter Gentenaar’s sculpture suspended from the ceiling not only highlights the contrast between the old and new, but it manifests the chef’s circle-of-life journey.

Best Public Design - Gold Winner: Kempinski Hangzhou by Avalon Collective (Image below)

Avalon Collective picked up another Gold Award for the Best Public Design for their project Kempinski Hangzhou. The Kempinski Hangzhou Hotel lies on the riverbank of the Jing-Hang Grand Canal. Influenced by the beauty of Hangzhou's West Lake, the interior design delivers a sophisticated representation of the lake and river's fluidity and romantic charm. Traditional elements from both Oriental and European heritage are stripped down and reimagined into an elegant and modern space. The hotel interior seamlessly marries the property's natural surroundings with a luxurious design. For a grand entrance, the lobby features larger-than-life chandeliers inspired by the snow-tipped branches of willow trees that dot the banks of the West Lake.

Best Workplace Design | ≥ 5001 sqf Gold Winner: Section by Laank (Image below)

The jury gave the highest score for the Best Workplace Design ≥ 5001 sqf to local interior design firm Laank for their project; Section. When approaching this project, Laank focused on the company's motto: "Less Jargon, More Joy". What and how exactly do we interpret "joy" from a tech perspective, and how do we include the core principles of humanising tech? The result is a minimalist workplace interior packed with colour.

ABOUT INTERIOR DESIGN CONFEDERATION SINGAPORE (IDCS)

The Interior Design Confederation Singapore (IDCS) was established in 2003 from the merger of Interior Designers' Association (1984) and Society of Interior Designers (1996), to represent the interests of professional interior designers in Singapore and the interior design industry. IDCS is an active member of international, regional and national industry bodies such as, Asia Pacific Space Designers Association (APSDA) since 1997, and is one of the 8 founding member associations of DesignS in 2004.

IDCS is a registered society under Singapore law whose mandate is to spearhead Interior Design industry related initiatives and reinforce goals through its four committees, all overseen by the elected Council Members. IDCS is affiliated with other leading Design bodies such as APSDA, DesignS and government agencies such as Design Singapore, Enterprise Singapore, BCA etc. for various initiatives to expand our membership base.

IDCS' Design Excellence Awards (DEA) aims to be the platform to honour the Interior Design industry and its institutional landscapes with the highest accolades, not only in Singapore but also in the region. DEA will promote and acknowledge individuals and firms that have contributed significantly in good design thinking and visualizing the future of spatial design. While the inception of the award for the interior design industry was in the 1990s, it was not until 2011 that the awards was renamed Design Excellence Awards and two competition tracks were introduced. The two competition tracks were named Interior Design Excellence Awards (I-DEA), the category for industry professionals and Spatial Design Awards (SPADE), the category for students.
